

My favorite writer

Among all the authors I have read, there is one whom I love the most, whose works for me are the standard of classics, whose works I have been familiar with since childhood, and I still discover more and more of his works. My favorite author is the great A. S. Pushkin.

Even in my earliest childhood, my mother read me Pushkin's fairy tales. I had a beautiful large book with illustrations that I always carried with me. My favorite fairy tales were: "the Tale of the fisherman and the fish", "the Tale of Tsar Saltan" and "the Tale of the dead Princess and the seven heroes".

When I grew up, I began to read Pushkin's poems and novels. I can't single out my favorite work from the legacy of Alexander Pushkin. But there are works that I reread, for example: "the captain's daughter", "the Queen of spades", "Ruslan and Lyudmila", "Dubrovsky" and "Eugene Onegin".

I sympathize with the heroes of Pushkin, I like their characters, their perseverance, they are very strong personalities, they stand up to all the trials of fate, this can not fail to admire, I also would like to have such strength of spirit as the heroes of Pushkin.

I also like to read the lyrics created by A. S. Pushkin. His poems are very diverse, they touch on a variety of serious problems, for example, the problems of the state system in Russia or the problems of a small person. Pushkin masterfully creates a description of landscapes and people, readers can feel the whole atmosphere that is described in the work, we empathize with the characters, we rejoice with them.

Pushkin is the basis of all Russian literature. Even M. Yu. Lermontov at the beginning of his career trembled to his favorite idol.

Pushkin's legacy will live forever, it will never be forgotten. Children and adults are still reading his works, and I believe that the next generations will also honor and read the great Russian writer and poet.

My favorite writer is Pushkin

We all read a lot, and from the very childhood we have our favorite works and their creators. After all, rereading a particular book, you find yourself again with your favorite characters with their experiences and feelings. One of the most favorite writers for me was Alexander Pushkin, whose work I have been familiar with since birth. When I was three months old, my mother often read me a fairy tale "the Tale of the fisherman and the fish". I, as if I already understood the whole essence of the work, blinked my blue eyes and gradually fell asleep. Later, for me, the tales of a brilliant author became a table book. After all, in each of his creations, I made the appropriate conclusions for myself, analyzed each situation. I especially liked the king's son Elisha, who, thanks to his courage and perseverance, despite all the obstacles that have arisen in his way, frees his bride from the captivity of the sorcerer. At the age of five, I read an excerpt from this work by heart on the Christmas tree to Santa Claus, for which He praised me and gave me an unforgettable gift.

After a while, I went to school. And to my great joy, here, too, we studied Pushkin's work according to the program. In addition to the main works, I became interested in other works of the writer. Often visiting the library, I took books with his beautiful and famous creations. As I studied his fate more and more, I realized that the author loved his Homeland very much and was worried about its future. All this was reflected in his works. The poems I read not only made me empathize with the author, but also had a beneficial effect on my soul.

I re-read each of his works several times, and constantly discovered something new. Soon I will enter adulthood, but I am not so afraid, because I already know how to act in a particular situation, how to correct the emerging unpleasant habits for others. All this I was taught by the books of Pushkin, who will always be among us, showing only the light and good. Source: Essay My favorite writer poet Pushkin
